

be attempted.

The author does not propose to treat the doctrine of the Person of the Holy Spirit, or his ministries other than the one specified; and that only during the Old Testament period. It is hoped that the following considerations shall throw yet more light upon this important and much-discussed area of Christian doctrine.